We sold our position in Hermes Multi Strategy Credit and reduced our iShares USD Treasury Bond ETF to fund the purchase of the iShares USD Treasury Bd 20+y ETF to increase our sensitivity to interest rates. We also reduced our position in M&G UK Inflation Linked Corporate Bond to purchase a direct UK Gilt which also increased our sensitivity to interest rates at a lower cost. Finally, we reduced our Jupiter Japan Income position to introduce Lazard Japanese Strategic Equity and sold our Allianz A Shares position to reallocate to our quality EM tracker, iShares MSCI EM SRI ETF.

Commentary

Markets closed November on a good note thanks to signs of economic moderation in the US and falling inflation across developed markets. Data supported the view that central banks have reached the peak of their tightening cycles, aiding both equities and fixed income. Major stock indexes gained over the month and growth stocks outperformed their value counterparts globally due to ongoing economic momentum, particularly in the US, and tight labour markets reinforcing market hopes for a soft landing. Core government bonds reversed some of their previous losses on the back of hopes for rate cuts next year and outside of sovereign bonds, the entire fixed income market benefited from lower yields and more rate cuts expected in 2024. The market was particularly encouraged by the release of the US CPI reading for October, which was cooler than expected. Headline and core inflation dropped to 3.2% year-on-year and 4.0% y/y respectively. The UK also saw a bigger-than-expected fall in headline and core inflation to 4.6% y/y and 5.7% y/y respectively. November provided some relief for investors, with both bonds and equities gaining on the month. Data suggesting inflation is easing reinforced investors' view that most developed market central banks have finished their monetary tightening cycles.
